1. In October 1953, an artillery training camp was located at Pozva (Y4/C95) about 3 km. north of Nagykanizsa, and next to the Pozva woods.
2. The camp was for summer use only as there were only wooden huts which served as quarters, garages, gun sheds, and stores. Tents were also put up for the men in the summer. Supplies for the camp were received from Nagykanizsa.
3. During the summers of 1952 and 1953, artillery units were at the camp, one of which was an artillery regiment from Komarom which arrived by road and by rail. This regiment had 76.2 mm. guns and 105 mm. howitzers.
4. Troops from the garrisons at Nagykanizsa and Zalaegerszeg used the camp for a short time, generally in the spring.
5. When the camp was not occupied by troops between autumn and spring, it was guarded by the infantry regiment in Nagykanizsa. The guard was changed once a week.
